

OAK TREE TIMES

All The News That's Fit For Camp

The Completely Normal CAAP News Column

By Don't You Remember?

Why, hello, readers! Welcome back to The Completely Normal CAAP News Column! How have you been? Say it out loud! Right here, as you read this! The government mood surveys will be happy about this. Now for this week's CAAP Community Calendar!

Monday was a Festival Period day, offering several outdoor activities such as Big Game, T-shirt Painting, Horrific Game, Blood Removal, Soapstone Pendant Making, and Demonic Game. Tuesday was another Festival Period day, which offered most of the same things but added Government Overthrow. This was obviously stopped quickly by undercover military officers, and those involved were removed from CAAP. Today is a day. Thursday will be unknown. Friday is Femboy Friday, and also, well, I'll just say you should be prepared.

Now, a word from our sponsor. Flesh! This has been the word from our sponsor.

Now for Traffic! If you see a blue Ford pickup truck with nothing in the back, it's fine. However, if you see a pickup truck with odd paintings of eyes on the side, then run as fast as you can into the woods where they cannot find you. There may be a small traffic jam, so make sure to bring your jars and/or something to put the jam on!

Now, the news! Two Festival Period days in a row may signify imminent doom due to Festival Period essence being able to change the fate of the universe. Recently, several clay beings have emerged from the kilns in the clay room. They will attempt to walk towards you, but if knocked over, they will shatter into pieces, which results in a low danger level. However, if a hallway is empty, and you feel like you are being watched, you most definitely are.

In other news, along with the confusing stairways, the hallways may repeat themselves with seemingly no exits. There are no known guides to these hallways; however, one thing is known. If you hear footsteps, run. Do not look behind you. Never stop running and hope that you survive.

Readers, this has been The Completely Normal CAAP News Column, and you have been confused. This column is inspired by the podcast Welcome to Night Vale. Check it out on Spotify or other places you listen to podcasts!

CAAP's Crazy Hats

By Penny Judd

Tomorrow, Thursday the 14th, is Crazy Hat Day!

Remember to wear a hilarious hat! You can make a hat, buy a hat, or anything else. I hope that walking in to CAAP tomorrow will be a great experience! So remember, tomorrow is Crazy Hat Day!

A Chicken Story

By Alex Chen and Mimi Crozier

One day, a chicken was roaming around his house. Then he heard a knock at his door. He opened his door and saw a deer in the doorway. He was surprised, so he let him in. The deer was quiet for a moment until the chicken asked him, "What are you doing in my house?"

The deer was silent and then said, "You let me in."

The chicken considered this and sighed. "I was being friendly," he said.

"Well, I don't want you here, so get out. This is now my house," grumbled the deer.

"WHAT?!?!!" roared the chicken. "It's MY HOUSE!!"

"Well, now it's my house, so get out." And with that, the deer kicked the chicken out of the house.

"Ugh," sighed the chicken. "Why is it always me? I must be related to Neville Longbottom. I will get the deer back. I will."

And the chicken trudged off with his head hung. He worked hard, and finally, he was ready to get revenge on the deer. What was the revenge the chicken took out on the deer? We cannot say, but it was awesome, and the deer was never to be seen again. Or so everyone thought...

How They Make Mayo

By Ben Snyder

If you're like me, you've always wondered how they make mayonnaise out of eggs. As a frequent consumer of eggs and an occasional consumer of mayo, I was baffled as to how the egg can become something so different in composition and flavor as the mayonnaise spread. Here is how they do it, according to the experts:

The FDA requires mayo to contain at least 65% oil by weight, as well as some amount of vinegar and eggs. First, mayo manufacturers emulsify the vinegar and the oil, or cause one of the liquids to be suspended in the other one.

After that, they put the mixture through a series of pumps and containers that might look like this, in which additional ingredients are put in: After that, we are left with the briny delicacy that us Americans crave desperately. It is a complicated process, but a worthwhile one.

Got Legos?

Please donate used Legos to CAAP. Donations will be accepted at the front desk.

What's the Cutest Doggo??

By Dean Bennani

#1 (Biased) The Golden Doodle (PRICE) $1,000-$2,500

The cutest dog is definitely a golden doodle. Golden doodles are so fluffy and cute, and they come in all different shapes and sizes. For example, if you look up golden doodles, it will show a bunch of curly haired small dogs, but my golden doodle is MASSIVE. He's even taller than me when he stands up, and I would recommend it as a family dog.

#2 The Shiba Inu/DOGE (PRICE) $1,850-$5,000

You may know this cute doggo from the Doge meme, or if you love dogs, you already probably know this dog, or you may know this dog from cryptocurrency known as the Shiba Inu coin or Dogecoin. The Shiba Inu is a beautiful dog, but it is very pricey at a wowing $1,850-$5,000, but if you ask me, I think it's worth the price.

#3 The Siberian Husky (PRICE) $1,700-$10,000

I've never had a Siberian husky, but if I had to choose another dog, it would most definitely be a husky. The husky is very fluffy and kind (if trained). Huskies also have big teeth and a very cute smile, and I would recommend it as a house dog no matter the price.

Climate Change and Why It's Bad

By Myra Geisinger

Climate change affects lots of things, but hardly anyone cares. It causes floods that can kill hundreds of people.

We, humans, know how to stop this, but we don't. We know it's bad, but we put chemicals in the sky anyway. Some people are careless, and they can hurt others without noticing, and smoking is part of that. We can stop this. We just have to try. And to everyone reading this, do what you can. Of course, you can do this. Just like I said, try.

Today on Mr. Crazy

Hi! This is Mr. Crazy reporting for OTT. An avocado is sewing the piece of toast. Now, I am interviewing Reuben.

Q. What is your favorite period?

A. Photography.

Q. What will you do this summer?

A. Go to two camps.

This is Mr Crazy reporting for OTT.

